

The Spanish Language Classroom Newsletter – September 2007

Que magnifico! We are off to wonderful start in Spanish language class! The children are learning vocabulary related to greetings, colors, courtesy, and naming their likes and dislikes. I have been very pleased to see how much they know and are able to retain from week to week.

Students are expected to participate in listening and speaking roles as they work in individual, small group and whole group settings. In the classroom, students are invited to engage in role-play situations, communication games, songs, rhymes and listening/recognition activities.

Most recently, students have been introduced to telling time, and have watched the World Language educational series video of Muzzy and his adventures. This is an interactive program that reinforces what we learn in class in a dynamic and fun way. The students demonstrated great interest in the video as a learning tool.

Practicing foreign language skills at home is an excellent way to reinforce what we learn in school. Listed below are color vocabulary words we use during class time.
